IPE ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT

Again this year Greg Sutcliffe arranged for perfect weather, even though the date was moved. There were 39 golfers teeing off on August 13 at 14 Wing Greenwood Golf Course

Low score of 66 (6 under par) was accomplished by 2 teams, Scott Leblanc, Blair O'Neill, Brian Lavers and Niels Kliesen; Pat Dollimore, Greg Sutcliffe and Peter Keifl

Longest Drive prize won by Scott DeCoste

Closest to the hole prize won by Greg Sutcliffe

After golf everyone enjoyed a steak dinner thanks to Nalco

The golf game was made less tenuous thanks to AEM for the golf carts

Closest to the hole and longest drive prizes provided by Land and Sea

Prize table loaded thanks to the generosity of many sponsors, including: Ashland, Nova Scotia Power, AEM, Nalco, Land & Sea and Maynard Reese

Future Power Engineers of Akerley

This year all second year students have returned, eager to finish off the program and start their careers as Power Engineers. The first year students are showing interest as they are introduced to the world of Power Engineering. The new students are enjoying class and the morale is high, as their minds expand with the load of new information. There is a lot of work to be done and information to cover before the Christmas Exams sneak up faster than expected.

Institute of Power Engineering student representative, Clayton White, informed the first and second year Power Engineering students about the IPE. Clayton explained what the IPE represents and what the students can gain from the IPE, such as, information and connections in the field as well as guided tours of various plants to spark the interest of students. The students were shown the IPE website and in turn shown how they can sign up to be a part of our growing society nationwide. The students asked questions, such as, "What can the IPE do for me when trying to find a job in the industry?" as they learned the answer to their question then they asked, "Why would any Power Engineer not want to be a member of the IPE?" This is the spark of interest that we as the IPE cannot let disappear.

New and upcoming Power Engineers of both years are excited to see what the IPE will bring this school year. Students are excited to go on plant tours and are eager to meet industry professionals active in the Power Engineering trade.

Respectfully submitted
Clayton White
